

UNIVERSITY of HOUSTON

College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences

The Arab-American Educational Foundation Chair in Modern Arab History warmly invites you to

The Inaugural Nijad and Zeina Fares
Arab-American Educational Foundation Lecture
in Modern Arab History

ROUSSEAU AND PALESTINE:

A RADICAL TRADITION OF POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY

Presented by Professor Karma Nabulsi of Oxford University

Thursday, March 31, 2016

Wine & Cheese Reception 6:30 PM

Lecture 7:00 PM

University of Houston Main Campus

Student Center Theater

126 University Drive

Houston, TX 77004

*Parking available at Welcome Center Garage
Entrance 1 off Calhoun Road*

Campus map and directions

Karma Nabulsi, D.Phil., is a distinguished Palestinian public intellectual, political theorist, historian, and former national representative. She is a senior faculty member and current director of undergraduate studies at the Department of Politics and International Relations at Oxford University. She is the author of Traditions of War: Occupation, Resistance and the Law and Palestinians Register: Laying Foundations and Setting Directions. Professor Nabulsi has been a columnist for the Guardian and is a regular contributor to a variety of publications including the Independent, The New Statesman, and the London Review of Books. She is Chair of Trustees and co-founder (with Bella Freud) of the HOPING Foundation.