

New Religious Studies Major

33 Hour Major

plus a 3 hour Practicum, satisfied by an Internship, Study Abroad Program, or Capstone Research Project

Religious Studies asks how religions operate in cultures and societies, and how they influence events and attitudes in local communities and global contexts.

Courses in Religious Studies provide an arena for respectful dialogue among major world religions. Courses draw on textual analysis, history, anthropology, sociological and cultural analysis, etc. Students acquire essential skills for understanding global politics and cultures.

Religious Studies prepare you for a range of interesting jobs and careers. Religion majors have successfully gone on to professional training in business, social work, law, medicine, government, management, marketing, and publishing.

If you have questions, please contact:

Dr. Christian Eberhart, Professor and Program Director of Religious Studies at ceberhart@uh.edu;

Advisor Landis Odoms at lodoms@uh.edu.