

English 4350—Short Story Writing
Antonya Nelson

This class will use both published texts and student stories to explore the craft and crafting of short stories.

Students will be responsible for close reading, providing insightful commentary, and participating in class discussions.

There will be workshops as well as literature discussions.