14. What have you liked most about this course and why?

It introduces you to several different perspectives on life through analysis of various ancient texts. I didn't know these texts had so much to offer.

15. What have you liked least about this course and why?

I did not like how ~~this course~~ we were expected to write a certain way as soon as we entered the course without being taught much at all.

16. Other comments and suggestions.

I think ~~one~~¹⁻² lectures/discussions should be dedicated to paper writing: how to format a paper, how to formulate a thesis and introduction, and how to analyze a text.

14. What have you liked most about this course and why?

The different kinds of texts that we have read. I learned and enjoyed a lot of interesting things about the older religions and civilizations.

15. What have you liked least about this course and why?

I would like to have better discussions, because it makes it easier to bounce ideas off one another and get new ideas. We haven't really done a lot of that.

16. Other comments and suggestions.

Somehow encourage or force the class to discuss more. I liked that one time when we had to create a question about the text and then had to ask someone in the class the question and it continued around the room.

The midterm exam was graded too harshly.

16. Other comments and suggestions.

Morrison needs to take a more active role. He is very smart but lets the discussions wander too far off topic. He needs to be more active as a discussion leader.

Our professor doesn't let us have enough discussion with just the students, he over-controls the conversations. He is very smart in class but it turns into a mini lecture instead of students collaborating.
