ECON 4298-Special Problems

Students who take ECON 3351 or my ECON 4389 course may also take my ECON 4298- Special Problems in Development in which they will add two of the assigned choices which they did not use for the regular class. This course will be offered only to those who need two hours to graduate in December 2014.

There are a limited number of topics on which students will do their papers. They correspond to topics that students taking my courses in Fall 2014 will research for class presentation. Students taking 3351 or 4398 will be required to work with the group in class doing the presentation and be part of the presentation unless they have a course conflict. More details on presentation and topics will be provided, posted and sent out to all students registered for my courses.

CREDIT WILL BE GIVEN ONLY TO THOSE WHO ENROLL IN THE Fall 2014 SEMESTER.

ALL STUDENTS TAKING ANY INDEPENDENT STUDY COURSE FROM ME IN ANY SEMESTER WILL PRINT-OUT THE POSTED SYLLABUS FOR THE COURSE BEFORE ATTEMPTING TO ENROLL FOR IT. THEY WILL TAKE IT WITH THEM TO FILL OUT THE PETITION USING THE INFORMATION IN THE SYLLABUS AND THE EXACT WORDING BELOW.

In filling out the petition to take the course write the following:

“Taking ECON 3351– The student will read two additional assigned books for ECON 3351 books and add 20 pages to their total page requirement for ECON 3351. The papers are expected to cover the selected topics in greater depth.”

“Taking ECON 4389– The student will read two additional assigned books and add 20 pages to their total page requirement for ECON 4389. This paper is expected to cover the selected topic in greater depth.”

Students taking my ECON 4389 class may search out the articles on dairy and cattle production by Judith L. Capper (sometimes listed as Jude Capper) at Washington State University and email the titles and URLs to me for permission to use them rather than an assigned book.
