NACAS Announces DaNesha Allen, CASP Has Earned The CASP Certification.

Charlottesville, VA (October 28, 2016) – NACAS, the largest auxiliary services support organization serving higher education, is pleased to announce that DaNesha Allen, Director of Food Service at University of Houston-Central, has earned the CASP designation.

CASP, Certified Auxiliary Services Professional, is a four-year certification for aspiring Auxiliary Services professionals. It is the only certification that demonstrates recipients have met a high standard of excellence, as defined by experts in the industry, and that they have the skills necessary to be a Director of Auxiliary Services. Founded in 2009, CASP affirms the recipient's expertise in: Management, Leadership, Marketing, Student Development, and Operations. Funding for this program is provided by the NACAS Education Foundation through the generous support of many individuals and the NACAS regions.
