

BERLIN | EXHIBITION

HOUSTON GENETIC CITY

On June 24th, 2017 the Gerald D. Hines College of Architecture and Design opened an exhibition of student work at the Aedes Architecture Gallery in Berlin, Germany. Twenty seven students worked in three studios over three semesters to research and design the work exhibited in "Houston: Genetic City". The students were led by three faculty members: Peter Zweig, Matt Johnson and Jason Logan. Thom Mayne of Morphosis served as a studio consultant. Many thanks to these students who participated: (Munjer Hashim, Barbara Blanco, David Yao, Hicham Ghoulam, Vivian Nguyen, Ana Milan, Asra Rehman, Bladimir Carrillo, Eric Ventura, Alicia Islam, Clark Reed, Mario Lopez, Catalina Valencia, Micheal Zepeda, Diana Carolina, Jeff Lemley, Andrew Parker, Andrew Gressett, Taylor Rigsby, Angelica Lastra, Leann Dunn, Candela Beistegui, Grant Hill, Tung Dinh, Aziz Alshayeb, Christina Nguyen, Patricia Marcine)

