

Memorandum
Faculty Senate
Dec. 13, 1977

RESOLUTION

Whereas the present rate of faculty compensation for summer teaching is inadequate, and whereas lengthening of the summer session engenders economic and scholarly sacrifices of the summer faculty, be it therefore resolved that the administration be requested to seek to compensate teaching during the 5½ week summer sessions at a higher rate than that presently paid, and to provide additional compensation whenever summer courses extend over longer periods of time at the administration's request rather than the individual faculty member's.
