Economics of Social Enterprise

Join this course to:

- Learn about the nonprofit sector where, unlike conventional markets, firms do not aim to maximize profits, but their main goal is to create social value.
- Discuss charitable giving motives, fundraising strategies, impact investment, and new innovations in social entrepreneurship, such as microfinance and other successful types of development organizations.
- Learn and practice how to measure impact and evaluate a social enterprise.
- Learn how to create a social economy business plan for a nonprofit organization, how to write a report and efficiently present your results.

Register under:

ECON 4389 - Topics in Contemporary Economics II (Section 2)
