Who Should Take the Exam?
- All students who plan to enter a major in the following colleges: Engineering, Natural Sciences and Mathematics (NSM), and Technology (see specific majors).
- Students who need to take higher level science and math courses for graduate school prerequisites.

What If You Have AP or Transfer Credits?
- Scores and transcripts may not be on file when registration begins -- a passing score on the math placement exam will guarantee that students can register for required coursework.

Calculus I - MATH 2413

First Attempt (Online)
- Be sure to start with a practice exam!
- Use modules if you need a refresher for certain topics.
- Must be completed 48 hours before orientation.

Second Attempt (In-Person)
If you do not get an 80 or higher on your initial attempt, you have the opportunity to try again at your in-person orientation.
- Second attempts are proctored through the UH CASA computer lab. Sign up for an exam on your CASA account.
- Those who need a second attempt will have the opportunity to take the exam on the first day of orientation.
- Students who do not take the exam at orientation will be responsible to report to campus to take the exam.

Pre-Calculus - MATH 2312

Two Attempts (Online Only)
- Students who do not earn a score of 65 or higher on the MATH 2413 exam need to attempt this exam.
- Recommended to complete 24 hours before orientation.
