Faculty and student testimonials:

• “I’m in awe of so many people and their stories”

• “It was an outstanding experience and went extremely well. [The book] was valuable, and the students got a lot out of the story.”

• “I think this is an incredibly important program and I hope it's continued and expanded in the years to come.”

• “The summer read program’s purpose is to establish a sense of community, sameness, and pride within incoming UH students- to start a new era of identifying oneself with the University.”

• “This should be mandatory, it's a good way to experience a classroom setting before actually heading to class.”
University of Minnesota is leading this new effort to connect universities to free, high-quality academic textbooks that have been vetted by college professors.

Open textbooks not only contribute to student academic success, but also offer faculty the chance to reclaim their courses based on their expertise.
Open Textbook Network
Benefits:

– On-campus faculty workshop lead by a team of experts, to support faculty adoption of open textbooks.
– Training a representative from our campus to facilitate future open textbook workshops.
– Support from the OTN team in collecting data and building evidence of impact for our students.
– Gain access to an extensive national network of open education practitioners.
Member Responsibilities:

– Work with OTN team to plan and promote on-campus workshops for faculty and staff.
– Gather and report open textbook adoption numbers, and measure impact.
– Contribute ideas and expertise to shape the future of OTN.
Costs:

- $5000 one-time institutional cost, which is then matched by funding from the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation.
- $200 per faculty member who both attends on-campus workshop and writes a brief open textbook review.
- 10 faculty who will use open textbooks for at least one class - $1,000 for their use, professional development, conference presentations, materials, etc.
- Chance to collect data on impact, cost savings, student satisfaction, faculty satisfaction
HAPPY HOLIDAYS!
